Canada

As a national non-profit organization, the Canadian Agricultural Safety Association (CASA) takes a collaborative approach working with partners to support initiatives that equip producers, their families, and workers with the information and tools needed to recognize risks and manage hazards to keep farms safe.

The CASA Back to Ag Program is designed to get farmers back to what they love – farming.

The Back to Ag Program is a funding project focused on supporting the cost of adaptive technology for farmers that have experienced a traumatic injury.

The health of those who work on farms is essential to keeping farms themselves safe and sustainable.

CASA's Mental Health Hub is an online resource designed to amplify and promote already existing mental health programs and resources available to producers across the country.

Find the Hub here: www.AgMentalHealth.ca

Take affordable, professional, ag health and safety courses developed by CASA, anywhere, anytime of day. Because farm safety is important 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year.

Whether you're looking to take individual courses or provide safety courses for your employees, CASA has options.

From awareness-raising displays and BeGrainSafe Week to firefighter training and online education, we reach all ages with our grain safety message.

Keeping little ones safe on the farm is important — that's why we've created a resource section on our website dedicated solely to kids!

Colouring pages, toolbox talks for kids, and guides to creating safe play areas on the farm are just a few of the resources we have available.
