About Canadian Ag Safety Week

Canadian Agricultural Safety Week (CASW) is an annual campaign organized by the Canadian Agricultural Safety Association (CASA) that takes place during the third week of March.

Every year, the campaign works to reach farmers, farm families, farm workers, and farming communities in cooperation with industry partners, media, and provincial and regional partners to share information and resources to keep farming operations safe, healthy, sustainable, and successful.

From 2025 to 2027, CASW will feature daily themes to address key agricultural health and safety topics impacting all those who live, work, and visit Canadian farms. Using the hashtag #FarmSafetyEveryday, the campaign urges all Canadians to prioritize safety on farms, in fields, on roads, and within their communities.

Get Involved

Safe farms are important to the entire agricultural industry. As a Friend of CASW, you are vital in promoting farm safety. Friends use their platforms (workplaces, social media accounts, spheres of influence) to proclaim they support a farm safe culture, share resources, and to work towards safe and sustainable agriculture where healthy Canadian farm communities thrive.

Who can be a Friend?

Friends can be non-profits and community organizations.

Friends Plus

Other organizations can show their support of Canadian Agricultural Safety Week by becoming a Canadian Agricultural Safety Week Friend Plus. For organizations that aren't community-based or non-profits, becoming a Friend Plus means showing support for Canadian Agricultural Safety Week by providing an in-kind benefit. This could mean advertising farm safety, hosting an event or creating a resource in support of Canadian Agricultural Safety Week. Contact CASA for more details on how to participate and become a Friend Plus!
