Keeping Kids Grounded: Preventing Falls on the Farm

Every parent knows that children love to climb. And with so many places to climb on a farm, the urge can be tempting.

Falls are a common hazard on farms. And the risk is high for children.

So, how do we protect kids from falls on the farm? Install physical barriers to block kids from accessing areas that are off limits. Store ladders properly and don't leave ladders unattended when in use. And make sure to talk to kids about where climbing isn't safe.

Simple steps can go a long to prevent kids from falling and getting injured on the farm.

This year marks the inaugural Kids FarmSafe Week, which celebrates Nurturing the Future of Agriculture. For more information and safety tips, visit www.kidsfarmsafe.ca.
